VINE STREET BAPTIST CHURCH.

The Sunday morning and evening services were well attended. Rev. Hillman preached in the morning, and Dr. T. H. Ewing in the evening. It was our rally day, and the church had been divided into two clubs: The Queen of Sheba, with Sister Samantha Walker as president, and the Canaanite Club with Brother James Graham as president. The Queen of Sheba outran the Canaanites, and is therefore queen indeed. Our pastor was called to Leavenworth on account of the illness of his daughter, Miss Ethel Ewing. Revs. Carum and McDowell visited our church Monday night and spoke in the interest of Macon College. We enjoyed their talks very much, and hope they will come again. The annual sermon of the Woman's Mission Circle was preached Tuesday evening, July 21, by Rev. R. Hillman. He preached a very instructive sermon, which was enjoyed by all. It is to be hoped that the success of the Circle will be great in the future.

Probable Duration of Sun.

Adopting the well-known hypothesis of Helmholtz, which attributes the production of the heat emitted by the sun to its contraction, an idea can be formed of the sun's duration. If one forms of the sun a coefficient of expansion intermediate between that of mercury and that of gas, one arrives at the conclusion that it has taken one million to three million years for the sun to contract to its present radius; in particular, it would have taken ten thousand years to contract from infinity to a radius twice its present radius. Finally, the sun will take 200,000,000 years to contract from its present radius to half that radius, and even then its temperature at the surface will be 3,000 degrees.—Scientific American.

Build Island of Concrete.

An artificial island of reinforced concrete has been built in the Mediterranean at Hyeres strait, near Toulon, the great French naval base, which is to be used solely for testing torpedoes. The island is not a large one, being less than 80 feet long by about 60 feet broad, and is built upon a reinforced concrete calson which was towed out from Toulon and submerged. It is divided into compartments by walls 4 feet thick, in the largest of which 10 feet below the sea level, the torpedoes are handled. Projecting from this compartment are three torpedo tubes, while above the surface of the water, 10 feet in the air, are two aerial-torpedo tubes. The operating mechanism, which uses electricity as a motive power, is all contained in the superstructure built over the calson, and lighting and ventilating systems as well as wireless and searchlights are provided. An electric crane extending out from one side permits the torpedoes to be lifted from the water and returned to their stations after practice.—Popular Mechanic.

Missionaries Discover Waterfall.

Father Colbacchini of the Salesian order, founded by Don Bosco, which has important mission stations among the Indians of Brazil, reports the discovery of a great waterfall on the Rio das Mortes, in the Matto Grosso, which he named after Pius X. The Rio das Mortes, which is between 150 and 200 meters wide and more than two meters deep in its higher course, narrows down gradually to about eight meters, and the immense volume of its waters dashes down through a mass of high rocks in a wonderful waterfall more than 500 meters long. Father Colbacchini had the name of Pius X cut in the rock near the waterfall and erected a large cross made from the branches of two trees on the brink of the water. He then explored the lower course of the river. The surface of the region crossed by Father Colbacchini and his party of horrors is covered by strata of sandstone deeply eroded and indented by water, and the river basin was surrounded by ridges and ranges of hills.—New York Sun.

New Paper Fabric.

The Boston News Bureau says that at the sugar mills of the Nipe Bay company in Cuba more bagasse or refuse is being developed from the cane than is needed for fuel and that the surplus is being made into paper. It says that this "refuse" is a "splendid grade," sells at high figures and good profit. This possibility has been discussed often and sugar cane is not the only product considered capable of such use. Over in the Philippines one of the difficulties of agriculture is the rapidity with which the cogon grass springs up and occupies the soil. Many experiments have been made with this fibrous substance in the way of papermaking and good prospects have been reported. If it proves available, we shall have a crop, self-sown, which ripens in a few months, as against the spruce, which, if it survives at all, takes 20 years for renewal.

The Bottle Tree.

The Sterculias is a genus largely represented in Queensland, and widely distributed. To it belongs the bottle tree of the west of Queensland. Blacks eat the seeds of one of the species of the coast, and in the Philippines those of apparently a closely allied species are considered wholesome when roasted or boiled, though eaten in large quantities. The tree belongs to a good family (being related to the Theobroma (food of the gods), which supplies the world with cocoa and chocolate. When the fruit splits open it is a brilliant scarlet with orange-tinted interior; along the parted edges are the seeds, oval and black, covered with a rich purple bloom. The fruit, being tough and leathery, it remains on the tree a long time, forming a most effective display in the gloom of the jungle.

Boiling Down a Profession.

A young fellow living in one of Indiana's small towns was graduated from the high school and looked about for some easy, yet lucrative profession. He finally decided to study medicine, and settled down in the office of the town's most popular doctor for a summer's reading. As he read he watched this busy man's hours of work. One day in the late summer the doctor came in out of a drenching rain, tired out, and a trifle cross. Glancing at the immaculate young fellow, whose heels were reposing on the office desk, he asked brusquely: "Still think you want to be a doctor?" "Ye-es," came the languid answer, "but I've decided to practice only on fair days, and not go out of nights."

Preservative of Youth.

None of the nature studies requires much money or time. A cheap illustrated guidebook, an opera glass, and, if possible, some walks and talks with an expert, and you will learn almost immediately to identify a score or more of flowers, or birds, or constellations, or mushrooms, and you will have found a hobby on which you may ride away from Death. Try it, young men, lest you grow old. Try it, old men, before you grow tired. Escape into the open from these narrow indoor days and learn the way to where the wild folk dwell. In their land you will find the help of the hills, and hope wide as the world, and strength, and youth, and happiness. Try it.—Samuel Scoville, Jr., in Lippincott's Magazine.

THE LEAGUE ENTERPRISE.

Many, no doubt, have not considered just what this Enterprise means to the colored people of Kansas City. First, it means that the best appointed shoe shining parlor in Kansas City is at their disposal and particular service. Here is a long felt want fulfilled and realized. How often have we heard some woman exclaim: "Oh, there is no place for a colored lady to get her shoes shined without going into a barber shop." This is no longer true. Our well equipped shining parlor is sufficient for all needs and we make a special effort to serve the ladies in this line. We call for and deliver your shoes when so desired and we extend an invitation to all to attend our parlor where we give the best service and the most generous accommodation in town. Remember a shine in our parlor is always five cents, morning, noon and night. We do not raise the price on Sunday afternoons or holidays. It is always the same in price and the same good quality of workmanship. We have everything necessary to render First Class Service. Expert workmen—shoes scientifically cleaned, such as black suede, white, suede, tan and every type or color, shoe laces furnished, buttons put on, buckles and bows sold at the very lowest price. Always polite and glad to get your patronage—eager to accommodate you in any manner. A Free Bell Phone for Your Own Use. Ice water to refresh you—Music to entertain you. We predict for ourselves the best advertised, the best patronized and the best managed Negro business in the city. Clean cut, no graft. Everything business like. Located in the heart of the Negro business district. We are at your service all the time, night and day. Our second line furnishes you with all of the noted Negro newspapers such as the New York Age, Amsterdam News, Chicago Defender, Indianapolis Freeman, Dallas Express, Richmond Planet, Toledo Blade, and the famous Crisis Magazine, with others. Our line of books by Negro authors will be of a large selection. Watch our windows for different displays. The place is located at 1521 East 18th street. Roy Farley, head workman; Charles A. Starke, proprietor.

OFFICIAL CALL.

To the Members of the Western Negro Press Association: I hereby call the Association to meet in its 16th annual session in the city of Muskogee, Okla., August 18-19, 1914. All newspaper men and women are urged to be present. A. J. SMITHERMAN, Pres. Tulsa, Okla. J. D. COOK, Secretary, Milwaukee, Wis.

There is a reason why the larger part of Cabinet Stationery used by Kansas City's "big" is turned out by the Arthur W. Harris Printing Establishment. First their workmanship is of the highest quality, secondly they are the largest and best equipped printing establishments in this city, since they all but make a specialty of this class of work. Second, while their prices are not always the lowest, they are always the fairest. They have "delivered" with accuracy and dispatch over 30 per cent of the class of wedding and reception during the past year and now when a function of this kind is announced it is a temptation to see that Harris will handle the job.

WORDS OF APPRECIATION.

More Mothers Testify to Merits of XXth Century Hair Preparations.

Nelson, Mo., April 13, 1913. Dear Madam Dabney: I am writing you for a small order. I want you to please send by mail 3 bottles of shampoo, 2 boxes of hair grower and 2 boxes of pressing oil. I like the remedy just fine; I would not be without it for anything. I am using it on my little girl's hair; it seems to be helping it greatly.

MRS. ANNA BRUNER. Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 20, 1913.

Dear Madam Dabney: I am a mother of four girls. In trying to improve their hair I had tried several preparations, but none gave me good results until I used Madam Dabney's XXth Century Preparations. Their hair was thin, harsh and would fall out so that I dreaded to use a comb. Now their hair is growing nicely—does not fall out—has no dandruff—is soft and pretty. Three of these girls are attending Wendell Phillips School, Howard and Vine streets. Investigation will bear out my testimony. I would not be without the XXth Century Preparation in my house.

MRS. DORA HAWKINS. 2485 Woodland Ave.

A six week's treatment of Madam P. M. Dabney's XXth Century Hair Preparations sent on receipt of P. O. money order of $1.25, or a single package of XXth Century Hair Grower Pressing Oil or Shampoo sent for 50c. Write today to Madam P. M. Dabney's XXth Century Hair Preparations Co. 1806 E. 24th St., Kansas City, Mo. Dept. 40. THE UNREST IN OUR SOCIAL AND ECONOMIC SYSTEM.

(By Dennis S. Thompson.)

In these days of unprecedented bustle and bustle, one reads and hears much about the great unrest and struggle for places of honor in the economic and social affairs of our lives. From every avenue of human endeavor comes the cry of dissatisfaction; in one instance it is the religious leader who is not measuring up to the standard the people have expected him to set, while on the other hand, it may be that the leading educator of the community has not conducted his affairs in such a manner as to receive the full glory of the people.

The newspaper editor is unpopular because he cannot publish every insignificant happening, and the reporter or correspondent has hard things said about him because he is unable to take notice of every trifle that comes up in the community.

It happens nowadays that every fellow has some faults, and many of them argue that things were not so away back in the good old days. I am of the opinion that the people have always had faults, but the difference now is that there are so many more people that it is easier to notice these little shortcomings that distress so many of us.

We are very religious, but we soon come to have a dislike for the pastor of our church if he points out the right way of living. Some desire their children to be properly educated but if the school's principal corrects them as to how best get through life, they may it is a poor school, and are ready to make a complaint to the board of education.

And so it happens all along the line. They say we must change or the church will die, or the school will go to pieces; we must have a new preacher and another principal; this keeping of the people together is just the thing that is hurting us now, from the fact that too many are together on the wrong idea. It is to the advantage of any people, however, to come together on the right thing, in that it strengthens and makes them appear more representative.

It would be better for each one to bear in mind how necessary it is for us to do our duty before condemning the other fellow. If we would give our churches the proper support, moral and financial, we could probably see the pastor in a different light, as in the same manner our schools.

If we could read more Negro newspapers, pay for them, and encourage them, we could have good newspapers, instead of always abusing their quality. The same holds good in all lines of business; we must help to establish a substantial business among our own folk; and if we are not able to give financial aid all the time, let us not find fault but always speak a good word.

There are many persons who are not willing to help the race in any way, a class of self-appointed leaders in every movement that takes form in the community but finds fault and causes unrest among others, and in many instances bears a good name among the people.

The great majority of the people will be more than likely to follow the person with a good name, but when one stops to consider the matter, they will find there is a vast difference between a good name and character. It would seem, then, that we should prefer being influenced by people of good character, rather than by those with the good name.

Character is one of the greatest motive powers in the world. In its noblest embodiments, it exemplifies human nature in its highest forms, for it exhibits man at his best.

Although genius always commands admiration, character most secures respect. The former is more the product of brain power, the latter of heart power, and in the long run it is the heart that rules in life. Men of genius stand to society in its relation of its intellect as men of character of its conscience, and while the former are admired, the latter are followed.

Commonplace though it may appear, this doing of one's duty embodies the highest ideal of life and character. There may be nothing heroic about it, but the common lot of men is not heroic. And though the abiding sense of duty upholds man in his highest attitudes, it also equally sustains him in the transaction of the ordinary affairs of every-day existence.

Man's life is "centered in the sphere of common duties." The most influential of all the virtues are those which are most in request for daily use. They wear the best, and last the longest. Character, then, is the noblest of possessions. It is an estate in the general good will and respect of men; they who invest in it—though they may not become rich in this world's good—will find their reward in esteem and reputation fairly and honorably won. It is apparently expedient, then, that in life good qualities should be foremost.

If we are to continue to rise in life we must combine those principles that are going to contribute to our better interests.

We must exclude from our social and our business life as well, the little tangles which are the outcome of struggles for superiority and empty honors, which are of no avail to anyone, but only tend to aggravate and create a spirit of unrest in the affairs of society. The one thing most to be sought after is simply honesty of purpose, which in a person goes a long way in life, if founded on a just estimate, and a steady obedience to the rule, which one knows and feels to be right.

SUMMER MUSIC SCHOOL.

R. G. Jackson and Miss Beulah Douglass are going to conduct a summer school of music at Allen Chapel, 10th and Charlotte, Kansas City, Mo.

All persons who may desire to take lessons will find it to their advantage to speak to Mr. Jackson early, for a number of periods have already been given away to city, and out of town persons.

The advantage in enrolling early is, that you may have a choice of periods and avoid coming for lessons in the heat of the day.

The studios at Allen Chapel are nicely located, well appointed and are equipped with pianos that are kept in fine condition.

Special attention is given to children between the ages of seven and twelve years. The pipe organ of the church is at the service of pupils for practice, who are doing organ work.

On account of the large enrollment in piano, organ and voice, only a limited number can be admitted into harmony classes, so it is advisable for persons wanting to do work along this line to enroll now.

Mr. Jackson invites interested parties to call at Allen Chapel on Saturdays, between 8 a. m. and 8 p. m. to talk over music for the summer, or address him at 531 Nebraska Ave., Kansas City, Kansas, Bell Phone West 1032 and West 1102-W.
